

Stimulation Activation

This subsystem is used to determine the active stimulation pattern. By checking whether the current angle lies between the modified start angle and stop angle.

